

The Anaphylaxis campaign
Helping people with severe allergies live their lives

Mini-conference for corporate members

Corporate members are invited to our annual mini conference on food allergy, which will take place at the Food Standards Agency in London on Thursday, October 8th, 2009. Registration is free to members.

Spaces are limited and members will be restricted to one person per company on a “first come, first served” basis. However, if additional places become available, it may be possible for a second person to attend.

All corporate members should have received a registration by email, but if you haven't received yours please register by calling David Reading on 01252 893862.

Speakers include Professor John Warner, an adviser on food allergy to the Government and The Anaphylaxis Campaign, whose understanding of the implications of food allergy – for the consumer, for the food industry and for medical professionals – has gained him a global reputation.

The Venue

The Food Standards Agency, Aviation House, 125 Kingsway, London, WC2B 6NH. The venue is opposite Holborn Underground station.

Date and time

Thursday, October 8th, 2009. Registration takes place at 10.30am and the event starts at 11am. Lunch will be provided free of charge.

The programme

11am. Sue Hattersley, Head of the Food Allergy Branch, Food Standards Agency – “Updates from the Food Standards Agency.”

11.30am. Jenny McClymont, Technical Services Manager at Northern Foods – “Introducing good allergen management into a complicated manufacturing facility.”

12.45. Lunch.

2pm. Prof John Warner, Professor of Paediatrics, St Mary's Hospital and Imperial College, London – “Emerging issues in the field of allergy. Research that may offer solutions. Where should food producers focus their attention?”

3.30pm. Close.